Embracing Arlington Arts Welcomes Natalie Roy as New Board Member

(Arlington, VA) – The non-profit organization Embracing Arlington Arts is excited to announce that Realtor and community leader Natalie Roy will be joining its Board of Directors. “We are so excited to have Natalie join our Board of Directors,” asserted Janet Kopenhaver, the organization’s president. “She not only brings a wealth of insight about the real estate market and understanding of Arlington County, but also is a huge supporter of the arts and brings to the table energy, enthusiasm and scores of important contacts around the DMV,” added Kopenhaver.

Natalie is currently the CEO and Founder of the Bicycling Realty Group of KW Metro Center, a top producing real estate team in Arlington and the Washington, DC area. She has lived in Lyon Park for 32 years and served as president of the civic association for several years, as well as Lyon Park’s Vice President for Development and Vice President for Neighborhood Conservation. “I am thrilled to be a part of the Embracing Arlington Arts (EAA) dedicated team of art enthusiasts and activists,” stated Roy. “I have long supported this wonderful organization which has made a tremendous impact on advancing arts and culture in Arlington and am excited at the prospect of serving on the Board,” she added.

The mission of Embracing Arlington Arts is to advance the vibrancy and health of the arts and culture in Arlington through advocacy and awareness programs, outreach initiatives, and projects that enhance equitable access to the arts and cultural environment. One of the long-term goals of the organization is to have a quality, flexible performing arts center built in the County that will serve as the home for several professional theater groups, live music events, showcase local artists and overall serve as an arts hub. “Art is critical to our quality of life and I look forward to working with EAA on its worthwhile mission and expanding its presence throughout the County,” Roy explained.
